CORN HALL ON TOUR

I'm feeling full of the joys of spring! Work on the Corn Hall renovations has started in earnest (do keep an eye on the hoarding outside for regular updates about what's going on inside), numbers at our On Tour events keep getting better and better, and the line-up in store for April to June is simply bursting with delights to keep you entertained throughout the season.

In April, we're delighted to be paying a visit to our friends at Wingfield Barns with Martin Newell & The Hosepipe Band – surely a very special evening of poetry and music. We have more outstanding music in June when Luke Concannon – one half of the million-selling duo Nizlopi – will be performing his passionate and uplifting songs.

I get excited about all the things we have in our programme but I have to confess that I can't wait to see the fantastic Victorian magic duo Morgan & West in May. Whether you're a child, or just want to rediscover the childish wonder that a great magic show can put you back in touch with, you won't want to miss this.

Theatre is always an important part of what we present, and this season is no exception. In particular, we're delighted to include performances of new plays from two of our local companies, Eastern Angles', Somewhere in England and Stuff of Dreams' Forgotten.

With Oscar madness upon us, many of the best films of the year are now available for us to screen. So for all of you who have been asking us about Spectre, The Lady in the Van, Brooklyn, Carol, The Danish Girl and Bridge of Spies – we have them all, and more!

Plus there's Comedy, Workshops, a Speakeasy Cocktail Party and a whole day of things cycling. No excuse then not to come for a spin.

Brooklyn (12A)

*Directed by John Crowley
UK/USA, 2015, 111 mins
With Saoirse Ronan,
Emory Cohen, Jim Broadbent,
Julie Walters*

Nick Hornby has superbly adapted Colm Tóibín's tale of a young girl (outstandingly portrayed by Saoirse Ronan), who leaves her small town in Ireland for a better life in New York.

Full of the life and colour of early immigrant life, this film is a splendid reminder that a great story doesn't need twists and turns or special effects and explosions to make its mark.

Spectre (12)

Directed by Sam Mendes UK/USA, 2015, 148 mins
With Daniel Craig, Christoph Waltz, Naomi Harris, Ralph Fiennes

After Sam Mendes' brilliant reinvention of Bond in Skyfall, he and Craig are back again with an altogether bigger, brasher, old-school 007. When a cryptic message from Bond's past sends him on a trail to uncover a sinister organisation, it is only a matter of time before he peels back the layers of deceit to reveal the terrible truth behind SPECTRE.

The Lady in the Van (12A)

Directed by Nicholas Hytner UK, 2015, 104 mins
With Maggie Smith, Jim Broadbent, Alex Jennings

Based on his theatrical production, and adapted by him for the screen, this is Alan Bennett's true story of Mary Shepherd, an elderly woman who lived in a dilapidated van on Bennett's driveway in London for 15 years. As their fraught relationship develops, Bennett learns there is more to Miss Shepherd than first appears. This fine British comedy showcases Maggie Smith's best performance in years.

Stuff of Dreams presents

Forgotten

A new play by Ray Rumsby

A dramatic and haunting play based on the life of George Crabbe, East Anglia's greatest poet, and the writing of his timeless work, Peter Grimes.

Crabbe's story captures 18th century life in all its colour and drama. Born in Aldeburgh, he was a victim of social prejudice in his youth and experienced extremes of unhappiness in his marriage. His powerful poetry shocked the rich with its scenes of rural poverty, but has made him one of our most enduring poets.

Taxi Tehran (12)

Directed, written and starring Jafar Panahi, Iran, 2015, 82 mins, subtitled

Jafar Panahi is banned from making movies by the Iranian government, so he poses as a taxi driver, surreptitiously rigs his cab with hidden cameras, and invites us to take a ride with him. As the people in the back seat of his taxi tell us how they think and feel, we gradually learn about the profound social challenges of living in Iran.

Bridge of Spies (12A)

Directed by Stephen Spielberg, USA, 2015, 135 mins
With Tom Hanks, Mark Rylance, Domenick Lombardozzi

In 1957 the cold war was at its peak, with distrust between the United States and the Soviet Union reaching new heights of paranoia, so when Rudolf Abel (Rylance) is arrested as a spy, no one wants to be his defence lawyer. The deal James Donovan (Hanks), his reluctant attorney, proposes is pragmatic, provocative and very quickly spirals out of control in this taut and suspenseful thriller. Spielberg has done it again.

Eastern Angles present

Somewhere in England

By Polly Wiseman

A fascinating and moving new production telling the wartime story of what happened when thousands of American GIs arrived in rural East Anglia.

Nylons, Hershey bars and jitterbugging to Swing bands in the village hall all feature, but there was another side to this shared history – a tale of segregation and of rural communities turned upside down.

The Lobster (15)

Directed by Yorgos Lanthimos, UK/France, 2015, 118 mins
With Colin Farrell, Rachel Weisz, Olivia Colman, John C Riley

Set in a hotel on the coast of Ireland, this surreal, wickedly funny comedy explores the strangeness of modern relationships and the awkwardness of social pressures.

The Hotel, overseen by a stern manager (Olivia Colman is terrific), gives hapless David (Colin Farrell playing brilliantly against type), the chance to find love but he must do so in 45 days, or suffer a bizarre, crustaceous fate.

Carol (15)

Directed by Todd Haynes, UK/USA, 2015, 118 mins
With Cate Blanchett, Rooney Mara

A superb adaptation of Patricia Highsmith's novel The Price of Salt about two women – one a society lady, the other a shop girl – who find themselves in an unexpected love affair in 1950s New York.

Exploring the conventional norms of the time it doesn't pull its punches, but at its heart, it is an involving and moving love story. Ravishingly shot, Blanchett and Mara together are dynamite.

Closely Observed Trains (15)

Directed by Jirí Menzel, Czech, 1966, 89 mins, subtitles
With Václav Neckár, Josef Somr, Vlastimil Brodský

Although trainee Milos Hrma starts his job at the local train station during the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia, he's far more interested in losing his virginity. The film's title is one of the many small ironies of this funny, sad, and exquisitely shot film.

Still highly acclaimed, this new wave masterpiece won the Oscar for best foreign language film in 1968, and it's easy to see why.

Directed by Tom Hooper, UK/French/German, 2015, 120 mins
With Eddie Redmayne, Alicia Vikander, Ben Whishaw

Following his Oscar-winning performance in The Theory of Everything, Eddie Redmayne continues to excel in this film which explores identity as much as gender, and how much the one is bound up in the other. Set in 1920s Denmark and based on the lives of artists Einar Wegener and his wife Gerda, it tells the moving story of their tender and unconventional marriage in which Einar struggles to become Lili, the woman he has always felt he is inside.

Tangerines (15)

Directed by Zaza Urushadze, Estonia, 2013, 87 mins, subtitles
With Lembit Ulfsak, Elmo Nüganen

Set in the early 90s, at the time of the war in Georgia, an Estonian village is left empty, except for Margus, determined to harvest his crop of tangerines. When circumstances throw men together from opposite sides of the conflict, it perfectly illustrates the incoherence and inhumanity of war from the points of view of both an innocent civilian and a dehumanized soldier. Nominated for the Best Foreign Language Oscar in 2015.

The Revenant (15)

Directed by Alejandro González Iñárritu, USA, 2015, 156 mins

With Leonardo DiCaprio, Domhall Gleeson

With two Golden Globe wins and nominated for 12 Oscars and eight BAFTAs, this is the film of the moment.

On the surface it is a deceptively simple story, set in the 1820s, of a frontiersman on a fur trading expedition fighting for survival after being mauled by a bear and left for dead, but it is much more than that. The gorgeous, naturally-lit cinematography, dynamic directing, and a visceral central performance from Leonardo DiCaprio make The Revenant a haunting and memorable experience.
